

Sika Class Newsletter

11.10.19

English

We have been using 'The Romans: Gods, Emperors, and Dormice' to begin writing their own myth, based on Romulus and Remus. The class have used fronted adverbials to explain place, manner, time and degree. Some fantastic examples are:

'On a stone cold night, Amulus threw the twins into the River'

'In a fit of rage, cruel Amulus flung the defenceless twins in the Tiber'

Maths

This week we have been continuing to concentrate on place value up to 10,000. The class worked on ordering and rounding numbers and courting in 25s. Next week the class will learn to add and subtract negative numbers.

Wider Curriculum— Comprehension/ History

During HRC (handwriting, Reading and Comprehension) the class have been learning about British immigration and the important role 'The Windrush generation' had in shaping Britain and the discrimination they faced once they arrived in Britain. Across October we will use comprehension activities and story time at the end of each day to celebrate 'Black History Month'.

Nathan

You have been kind, thoughtful, hard working and responsible this week Nathan
I have been extremely impressed with the maturity and responsibility you have shown in welcoming in new members of our class

Well done!